Product Description

The SteelSeries Sensei RAW is the pure and essential performance edition of the most award-winning, critically acclaimed gaming mouse in history. Featuring tournament-grade components, brilliant blue illumination, 7 programmable buttons, gaming grade UPE material feet and support of the SteelSeries Engine, it is the essence of performance.

From the Manufacturer

SteelSeries Sensei [Raw] Mouse Frost Blue Edition

SteelSeries Sensei is the original mouse extraordinaire from SteelSeries. It's the worlds most customizable mouse and features its own 32bit ARM processor (which allows double the sensitivity, to 11,400 CPI), and can be configured through a built-in LCD menu system on the back with support for up to 16.8 million colors.

SteelSeries Sensei [RAW] did away with processor, the LCD menu system and the on-board memory. If you don't travel around the world as a pro gamer, if you don't plug into tournament computers and if you don't need all the colors, the [RAW] will deliver the same world-class performance and same amazing customization options using the SteelSeries Engine. The SteelSeries [RAW] Frost Blue is the essence of performance and embodies everything we ever learned about mice.

Advanced Macros

Thanks to the support of the SteelSeries Engine software, you can record even extremely long and advanced macros to the Sensei RAW Frost Blue. The macros can not only be layered, include keystrokes and precise timing, but they can span across your peripherals allowing you to have a mouse button assigned to perform keyboard strokes and mouse clicks in the same macro.

Keep cool with the SteelSeries Raw Mouse in Frost Blue. View larger

Frost Blue Illumination

The frosty blue illumination is capable of several modes of operation including: solid, slow, medium, and fast pulse. You can also vary the intensity of the illumination between low, medium, and high. For those of you who don't like glowing shiny stuff on your desktop, you can completely switch off all illumination. It also brings a very real benefit to users who utilize multiple profiles: by giving them brightnesses, you can quickly switch between profiles and also ways know which profile is active.

Plug, Play, Win

There's no need to install software of any kind in order to use the Sensei [RAW] Frost Blue. It is completely capable of operating flawlessly with default settings. However, to unlock the potential of your mouse, download the SteelSeries Engine software. The software provides you with the ability to customize CPI settings, LED intensity, programmable buttons and lighting modes.

I really want to love this mouse... EDIT

Reviewed in the United States on December 1, 2019

Style: Sensei RAW Color: Rubberized Black Verified Purchase

EDIT: Lowered this to a 1 star review. I have had this mouse for 8 months and the scroll wheel is already failing. Every few clicks on the downward scroll results in an upward bounce. Same reason I got rid of my last Sensei, but I had that mouse for years. Not sure what's up with the quality of their mice these days, but I'd avoid them at all costs.

I had a SteelSeries Sensei RAW for years, and it was great for everything I used it for. When it finally came time to replace it, ended up buying another. But in less than 3 months, this mouse is already looking like it's headed for the trash can. In general, it functions just as well as the last one I had, but this mouse puts out a horrible, high-pitch noise when it's idle. For more than 30 seconds after you stop moving the mouse, or if you bump it, or the table shakes a bit, there is a sustained high-pitch tone that I cannot drown out. And while it's less obvious when competing with other noises, for me it is still quite noticeable, and it's driving me insane.

Died Within 60 days - This Seller is NOT Covered Under SteelSeries*Warranty

Reviewed in the United States on February 21, 2019

Style: Sensei RAW Color: Rubberized Black Verified Purchase

My significant other and I have been using the SteelSeries Sensei RAW for many many years . Typically, they last 2-4 years under heavy gaming use. My last one from this seller only made it 9 months, and my latest purchase from MotooDeals died within 60 days and unfortunately is not covered by the SteelSeries warranty as they are not an authorized third party seller. My two mice originally from SteelSeries are going on 4? 5? years now and I only looked to replace them due to slight scroll wheel issues.

Typically, this mouse is excellent. Mine seems to have been improperly handled or has faulty software, and unfortunately I am just out the money I paid. I would recommend buying from SteelSeries directly. Either this seller has inferior products or the RAW is not being manufactured as well these days. Unfortunate, but I will be looking into other brands and most definitely will be using direct sellers.

Burns bright at the start but fizzles out quick.

Reviewed in the United States on August 20, 2017

Style: Sensei RAW Color: Rubberized Black Verified Purchase

I've had the mouse since April 2016, after much use its been breaking down over the last few months its finally very noticeable now.

At first the mouse felt great no problems, now I'm getting tracking issues where I cant draw straight lines anymore and overall xy axis slow down and it feels sluggish. The mouse wheel is also starting a to have a mind of its own as well going back up pages or down with no input. (I've tried cleaning it and cleaning the mouse pad, so I don't think its dirt, I've also rolled back drives as well and reinstalled windows... so I think its hardware.)

Overall I'm giving it three stars since yes it did work at the start but did not last as long as my various old mouse did.

Good performance but has button durability issues and cheap quality silver coating

Reviewed in the United States on April 14, 2019

Style: Sensei Color: Grey Verified Purchase

I love the feel, look and responsiveness of this mouse. It's too bad they discontinued making it. It was a nice upgrade to my old Razer Lachesis. I bought my first Sensei directly from Steelseries in 2012 (one on the left in pic). In March 2016 I dropped it on the floor from my desk, and this permanently damaged the right mouse button (but it still works other than that). So I purchased a replacement from Amazon (on the right in the pic) which is still working.

However, as you can see the cosmetic silver coating or finish or whatever you want to call it wears off quite quickly, particularly in the bottom right corner (I am right-handed). This is from casual gaming use. Although I like the simple design of this mouse and the low profile side buttons, the cheap material quality is quite evident. I don't have particularly sweaty palms, but this happened nonetheless. I'll still give Steelseries another chance. It seems like the material quality is much better on their higher end products. So keep that in mind that it's not all about the additional features. Their headsets are a prime example. The lower end headsets not only have less features but are made from cheaper materials.

SteelSeries Sensei RAW Scroll Wheel Jump

Reviewed in the United States on January 28, 2019

Style: Sensei RAW Color: Rubberized Black Verified Purchase

Two stars because I really liked the design and feel but over all junk. I've had this mouse for less than a year. I loved the overall size and comfort of the mouse and was very happy with it until I began to have scrolling issues. At first I thought that the problem was software (driver) related but after uninstalling and reinstalling the driver(s) several times I began to search google for help. Come to find out that many others have had issues with this mouse and other model from the same company. There is a "fix" but requires taking apart, cleaning and or adjusting the hardware. I have had other gaming mice within the same price range that still work after years of abuse, albeit with rubber and paint missing, but still working. I will not be recommending this product or other products from this company unless they worked really hard to make this right to me and all of the other customers that have experienced this problem. I don't believe that they "owe" me, but I do believe that I will be replacing my mouse with another brand.

Best mouse ever!

Reviewed in the United Kingdom on January 15, 2015

Style: Sensei RAW Color: Rubberized Black Verified Purchase

Absolute best mouse I've ever had. I've tried quite a few others in the last few years (in order of preference - Cyborg Rat 5, Rat 3, Logitech G602, Logitech G502), and I'm very picky about the shape of the mouse ergonomically. This is obviously quite a subjective thing as people prefer different mouse shapes, although I find this one extremely comfortable.

Before buying this I already owned a Sensei RAW Glossy edition (with the glossy coating) - that was my favourite mouse but this one is just even better! not only does the coating feel more comfortable and smoother, the mouse buttons also have a more satisfying feel to them - the glossy version feels more clicky/flimsy, but these have a more solid and very consistent press to them.

I am a hardcore Moba/RTS gamer as well as occasional FPS gamer so the performance is the 2nd most important thing to me, and as I already said the feel of the mouse clicks is near

Good: Simple design - distinct lack of gamer frills

Good:

Simple design - distinct lack of gamer frills.

Ambidextrous.

Braided cable.

Software that allows for a good degree of customisability and a useful interface for adding custom macros.

I've found the tracking excellent in games as well as software like Illustrator and AutoCAD.

Mediocre:

One of the reasons I bought this mouse was because it has extra buttons on both sides - I like to use my ring finger to hit the buttons on right side of the mouse, but the tactility of the buttons is pretty poor. They're mushy and it can be difficult to tell the difference between them just by touch. I'm slowly getting used to them, but I miss how clicky the buttons on the cheaper Perixx model the Sensei has replaced.

An ok bit of kit some slight modifications needed to make it perfect

Reviewed in the United Kingdom on November 11, 2013

Style: Sensei RAW Color: Rubberized Black Verified Purchase

Their are certain pluses and minuses about this mouse, Excellent build quality although I find the usb cord slightly to heavy and can pull the mouse backwards if the lead is not positioned properly.

I found the mouse to be overly large therefore slightly uncomfortable but I liked the software with the mouse which allowed me to change it to left handed mode and slow it down a little, You should of seen the confusion on my friends face as he tried to use the mouse after all he is a stereotypical right hander :) Welcome to my world.

In my opinion it is a good price for what it is unlike some of the other brands out there that are totally extortionate and you pay mainly for the brand name.

So I guess the question is would I recommend this and the answer is if you are a lefty yes it is the best out there at the present time for this price point, Hopefully better will come along sometime soon, But if you are right handed I would have to say no there are better out there.

For the price point of this mouse, it's hard to find one to compare it to that looks and feels as nice as this one does.

I've been through a lot of mice but I feel that this one is by far the best mouse I've purchased, and some have cost quite a bit more. I even use a corsair m90 in work which costs considerably more and has an incredible amount of functionality... but I still prefer to use this modest sensei raw.

If you compare this mouse to most Razer mice, it looks and feels better but doesn't hurt your wallet so much.

If you're wondering what the differences are between this and the original Sensei, unless you are a pro gamer who truly needs the best possible mouse for minimal disadvantage, then I'm pretty sure the RAW will do you just fine. The compromises are small and the price drop is

Good mouse for gaming and general use

Reviewed in the United Kingdom on January 7, 2014

Style: Sensei RAW Color: Rubberized Black Verified Purchase

I went from an 18 month old SteelSeries Kana to this one. It's a little bigger, a little heavier but feels very similar except for the mousewheel which is stiffer but feels all the better for it. I'm sure the main rubberised area of the Kana is the same material as on this one, it feels the same and marks just as easily - make sure you wash your hands after eating those chips as the slightest bit of oil on your fingers will leave a stain.

One thing I noticed was that I had my Kana plugged into a usb 2.0 port via a 2 foot usb extension cable and it was fine but this one seems to need just enough extra power for that not to work and I had to plug it into a usb 3.0 port instead. I'm sure plugged directly into a usb 2.0 port it would be fine but it is something to bear in mind if your tower is too far away and you need an extension cable.

Overall though it does feel like a step up from the Kana and is very comfortable to use on any surface. I do like the simplicity of the SteelSeries Engine software too.
